THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

REV. H. A. NELSON TO THE GOVERNOR. ELMIRA, N. Y., August 28, 1865.

Honorable and Dear Sir:

I this day mail to the Secretary of State my onth of loyalty as a Curator of the State University, to be placed on file, as re-quired by the New Constitution. I have been absent from Missouri since July 10th, and shall probably be detained here by in partant matters until about the middle of September. et have seen very little of the discussions of hit the enforcement of the New Consti-tution, but have given a good deal of thought to the subject, and think I may take the liberty of expressing to your excellency some of my views. Your purpose faithfully to put in force a Constitution adopted by the people, notwithstanding your personal disapprobation of some of its provisions, must be approved by all candid men who can appreciate your obligations as a magistrate. It seems to me, however, that a practical question may arise in regard to your obligation immediately and sternly to put in force certain provisions which were inserted by the Convention while the re-bellion was still rempant, which the collapse of the rebellion has made unneccesary, and which it is probable that a majority of the people, at the time of their voting upon the Constitution, would have rejected if they had an opportunity to vote upon them as separate propositions. I refer particularly to the provisions requiring ministers of the Gospel, as such, to take and file the "oath of toyalty." The opinion that this is an unwarrantable enreachment of the civil power upon the church, a real infringement of religious liberty, is by no means confined to these who sympathize with disloyalty. It is decidedly my own opinion. I claim no exemption from responsibility to the State for all my actions on account of ministerial character. If I do any disloyal act or say any disloyal word, in pulpit or elsewhere, We give an authentic extract from the arrest me as promptly and punish me as address of Bishop Potter to the late annual severely as any other culprit. Take me Convention of the Diocese of New York at the conclusion of which it was unanimously do not admit the right of any State to impose and cordially responded to by the Convenever as a qualification for an office which tion, on motion of ex-Governor John A. the State does not confer, and has no right King. The Church Journal states that the resolution of the honorable gentleman "was not only voted unanimously, but the vote was given with such a vote was given with such a vote and relumn to feuffrage and for the civil office which I was given with such a voice and volume as hold, acknowledging the right of the State showed that the whole heart went with it: to regulate those civil relations.
